Opportunities for Economic Development

The HANNOVER MESSE 2016 will offer unique opportunities for investment attraction and trade promotion at the world’s largest industrial trade show. Through a strategic partnership between the U.S. Department of Commerce, U.S. Commercial Service, U.S. Chamber of Commerce, SelectUSA, the U.S. Embassy in Germany, and Deutsche Messe, the USA will be the official Partner Country in 2016.

Using HANNOVER MESSE as a platform will help state and local economic development agencies to achieve the USA’s expressed goal of furthering global trade, attracting foreign direct investment, increasing export activities, and opening global markets – ultimately generating more business, more growth, and more jobs.

A Strong Global Platform

HANNOVER MESSE is the largest industrial trade show in the world and a proven platform for initiating and furthering worldwide business opportunities. In 2015, 6,500 exhibitors from across the world introduced their innovations in areas such as advanced manufacturing, industrial supply, digital factory, energy, and mobility to more than 220,000 visitors and 2,400 members of the international press.

Worldwide Attention

Partner Country Status at HANNOVER MESSE automatically attracts enormous interest from the global media and business community. The immense visibility of the Partner Country and its exhibitors at the fairground will gain the attention of delegations, press, and visitors from Europe, Asia and the entire world.

The Right Attendees

In addition to the invitation-only Opening Ceremony showcasing the Partner Country, the main Partner Country pavilion is symbolically opened by high-level political representatives from Germany and the Partner Country. This occasion – including speeches and a ceremonial ribbon-cutting – is a must-attend event for global press and visitors. Throughout the week, international delegations are brought to the Partner Country’s pavilion.
